SMOKE DAMAGED LASHER'S HOUSE

Owner of Woodstock House Sues Dr. Downer for $750 on Account of Fumigation That He Says Left Spot Over Everything.

An action was started Thursday afternoon in supreme court by Norvin H. Lasher of Saugerties against Dr. Downer B. Downer of Woodstock to recover for damages which plaintiff alleges was done to his house in Woodstock when it was fumigated by Dr. Downer who was acting as health officer. The Lasher house in the village of Woodstock was built and occupied by Mr. Lasher before he went to Saugerties where he is engaged in the undertaking business. Since he moved to Saugerties the house had been rented furnished. Along in July of last year the house was rented to a New York man by the name of Wise. After this tenant had occupied the place for about a month he was taken ill and Dr. Downer, his attending physician, ordered him to go to the Adirondacks.

Mr. Lasher released him from his lease which had been signed and Mr. Wise left Woodstock. Shortly after the house had been vacated Mr. Lasher called Dr. Downer on the telephone and asked him if it would not be well to fumigate the house as he understood the last tenant had been suffering from tuberculosis. Dr. Downer stated that it would be advisable and also promised to take care of the matter.

According to Mr. Lasher's story the matter was not attended to and he again called the doctor but was unable to reach him, some person at the Downer house said they would take the message to the doctor when he came in. A few days later Mr. Lasher, who had a tenant, again called the doctor and a date was arranged for the next week. Mr. Lasher sent a man and woman to Woodstock from Saugerties to assist in clearing up the house.

The Lasher house in Woodstock was built about 10 years ago, it is a modern house with improvements, hard wood floors and chestnut trim. The house is valued at about $10,000. By Mr. Lasher and was rented furnished.

The present action which is occupying the court grows out of the fumigation of the house by Dr. Downer as health officer of the town of Woodstock.

Plaintiff claims that when Dr. Downer went to the house to fumigate it he did not use ordinary and careful means and that through his neglect the house was damaged to the extent of about $750. It appears from Mr. Lasher's story that when Dr. Downer went to the house he had a man pick up some shingles which were placed in pans throughout the house and kerosene oil poured over them and sulphur placed in the pans and the whole ignited, after which the house was closed up while the smoke fumigated the premises. Mr. Lasher claims that the shingles and all gave off a smoke which covered everything in the house and covered the walls, ceilings, floors and furniture with an oily, greasy soot which could not be washed off after the fumigation was completed. It was necessary to re-paint and paper the rooms and that the furniture never can be placed in the condition that it was before the smoking.

Mr. Lasher claims that in some places the soot was from one-eighth to a quarter of an inch in thickness. Defendant claims that he did use ordinary careful means of fumigation and that the work was done in the usual manner and that the material used was the usual material used for such purposes and that if there was any damage done by reason of the fumigation it was through no neglect or carelessness on his part and that he is not responsible for the damage done while he was acting in the capacity of a health officer.

George Kaufman appears for plaintiff and Judge Joseph M. Fowler and John T. Loughran of the firm of Fowler & Loughran appear for defendant.

NEAR EAST FILM AT TWO THEATRES

Opera House and Auditorium Saturday Afternoon—Campaign For Funds Begins Next Week.

Through Admiral Higginson and Mr. Gildersleeve, manager of the Auditorium Theatre and Opera House, the Near East Relief film entitled "Alice in Hungerland," will be shown Saturday afternoon at the above named houses immediately following the regular afternoon performances. There will be no charge for admission to the showing of this film nor will there be any solicitation of funds. It is being shown purely as an educational picture so that the people of the Colonial city will be able to visualize and appreciate more thoroughly the work that has been carried on by the Near East Relief in Asia Minor for the past five years. This film is greatly enjoyed by the children and it is the hope of the Near East Relief local committee that there will be a good sized audience in both of the theatres to see this wonderful picture.

The plans for the community appeal for funds for the Near East Relief are progressing very rapidly. There are being mailed out today letters to nearly 250 people asking them to attend an organization meeting at the Y. M. C. A. on next Monday evening, May 15 at 8 o'clock.

Admiral Higginson has just received a copy of the following cablegram received from the American Woman's Hospital, Erivan: "We have 852 cases in the hospital and children dying on all corners in Erivan. All day long we can hear the wails and groans of little children outside the office buildings hoping we can and will pick them up. If the sun shines a little while they quiet down, when it rains they begin again. One day when the rain turned to snow it was awful to listen to them. The note of terror that came into the general wail was plainly perceptible upstairs and I had the windows closed. They well know what a night in the snow would mean. We are picking them up as fast as possible, but it is fatal to crowd them to such a point that we would lose those already in orphanage."

Next week the city will be canvassed for funds to assist in alleviating conditions such as the above cablegram portrays. A dollar bill gives a child life for one week.

DEWITT OPENS ST. MARK'S BAZAR

Surrenders Nothing of Christian Belief Despite Wells or Scientists, He Says in Address.

The bazar at St. Mark's Church was formally opened Thursday evening by Postmaster W. C. DeWitt with the following address:

I congratulate you on the condition of your parish and church. When we think of what an inspiration our religion has been to the world our minds revert to the beginnings of mankind and we are amazed at conditions then as compared with circumstances and surroundings now. H. C. Wells' "Outline of History," recently published, gives much information, in a concise way, but, for me, he spoils it all by going too far over to science and forgetting God. Wells attempts to ignore the Bible. I am like the old Kentuckian, who was such a staunch church member and Bible adherent. One of his companions, taking the other side of an argument as to the Bible and things of ancient times, tried this question at him before the villagers around the country post office and amidst the cracker barrels: "Where did Cain get his wife?" That is supposed to be an ancient conundrum. The Kentuckian came up from the effects of the blow, shaking his head, and replied: "I believe the Good Book from kiver to kiver. We can beat Wells literally to 'frazzle' by sticking to this great Book from Genesis to Revelation."

In the absence of other proof, Genesis alone shows that the earth was a fluid, dark and shapeless mass of matter. Then came light, the expansion of the firmament, the waters retiring to their bed, the land crowned with verdure, herbage, fruits, the waters and land stocked with life, the division into seasons, the illumination of the earth, the birth of man. Both science and the Bible point to Mesopotamia in Arabia, between the Euphrates and Tigris rivers, as the cradle of humanity. Wells discusses a Neanderthal man roaming about the shores of the Mediterranean on the European side some millions of years back but I have not the honor of his acquaintance. I stick to the "good Book from kiver to kiver." Readers of the Bible can tell how old was Adam. He lived 930 years. Those were good, old times. Who was the first instructor? Tubal-Cain, who discovered the art of working in brass and iron and mentioned any of these.

Wells dismisses the deluge with a brief allusion to the sea breaking through at Gibraltar and flooding the Mediterranean valleys through to Asia. But both science and the Bible agree on this point, that the waters rose higher than the tops of mountains. Remains of great beasts of the land and fishes of the deep sea are found on these heights. The Bible says that the waters poured from the skies forty days and forty nights, without intermission, and the seas rose from their depths. The waters increased gradually for the space of five months until the highest summit was 27 feet under the waves. The truth of the Bible respecting the flood is strikingly confirmed by the general traditions of each race of man, and by the physical structure and condition of the earth's surface. Even our American Indians had received the story of the deluge from bygone ages. I fail to find in my researches, other than in the Bible, any mention of survivors of the terrible catastrophe. We accept the story of Noah. Here are some facts for Wells to study. Noah, with his wife and their three sons and their wives, remained in the ark 1 year and 10 days. The ark rested on Mount Ararat as the waters subsided, on May 6, 2347 B. C., but Noah did not leave the vessel until December 18, of that year, owing to the length of time necessary for the seas to return to their beds. How do you like those days, Mr. Wells? Noah was 600 years old at the time of the flood and lived 350 years longer. He beat Adam 20 years but Methuselah who died the year of the flood had set a record never equalled, 969 years. That was a ripe old age. Noah was a very wise man and in the year they were confined in the Ark he undoubtedly taught his sons much because they started out to found the nations in place of the wicked peoples existing before the Deluge. Shem peopled the east and south of Asia; Ham, Syria, Arabia and Africa; and Japheth the north and west of Asia, and also Europe. Now you can see how near we are related. We are not going to allow Wells or any other writer to arbitrarily fix our ancestry. We will accept "the Good Book from kiver to kiver." Surrender nothing of our ideals or teachings. We believe His birth. His example, words and sacrifice the most precious gift to mankind. The sermons, advice and teachings of Jesus brought a high standard of civilization to the globe. Christianity is the foundation of the World's enlightenment and progress. Even those nations of the Orient, who have not yet embraced Christianity, learned and adapted the great inventions of our time from the Christian world. But even in China there appears a wonderful desire for Christianity. The example of American liberty enlightening the world is drawing all peoples toward our customs and our ideals.

EIGHT INDICTED BY GRAND JURY

Arraignments Monday in Supreme Court—Dismissal of Four Complaints Recommended by Grand Jury Just Discharged.

The Ulster county grand jury, which has been in session during the present term of the Supreme court for the past ten days, reported to Judge Nichols at eleven o'clock this morning, handing up eight indictments, of which four were sealed, and recommendation of dismissal of complaints in four cases.

The new grounds are being gotten into shape as fast as possible and unless weather conditions change overnight the grounds should be in shape for Saturday and Sunday.

The grand jury also filed a memorandum, which is found elsewhere in The Freeman.

Bench warrants for the arrest of persons indicted who are not now in custody were issued and it is expected that all persons who were indicted will be arraigned on Monday afternoon.

VERDICT AGAINST FOX COMPANY

A verdict in the sum of $375 for plaintiff was returned Thursday afternoon by the jury which heard the evidence in the action brought by Ray Conway, et al., against the Henry E. Fox Construction Company, Inc., an action brought in supreme court to recover for rental and damages done to a stone crushing plant of plaintiff which defendant rented to crush rock for the repair job to the spillway of the Ashokan reservoir.

Fox entered a counter claim for certain repairs which he had been compelled to make before the plant would operate in a satisfactory manner, placing his loss at about $1,000. Plaintiff Conway claimed damages amounting to $1,266 and sued for that amount.

Defendant also claimed that he did not owe for rent as a part of the time which he held the plant he was waiting for orders from the owners as to where and when to ship the plant and further that had the plant operated as represented he would have turned out his work in two months. The machine was kept something over three months but plaintiff was paid for but two months by the defendant. The agreement being that the plant was to rent for $250 per month with a minimum cost of $500.

K. H. S. TO PLAY AT POUGHKEEPSIE

Not in three years has a baseball nine representing Poughkeepsie High gained a victory over Kingston High School. So with this in mind the Kingston lads will tour to Poughkeepsie Saturday to wrest the preliminary victory of the fourth year without defeat from their Bridge City rivals. Last season Poughkeepsie argued some inconsequential point with the locals with the result that the game was replayed at Poughkeepsie with the Kingston boys pinning the mule's tail upon Poughkeepsie. For two years, since the organization of the Central Hudson Valley baseball league, Kingston High school has won the trophy presented by the league.

Not one man on the local squad is in any form under the weather and the splendid hitting display on Thursday at the Athletic Field speaks multitudes for the team's condition. Bott has been unable to attend practices this week because of the pressure of scholastic duties, so Joey Hoffman has been substituting for him. It is the intention of the coach to start Hoffman in this position. The pitcher for the locals will undoubtedly be Canzini, with Dick Whiston catching. Muller will be on third, Stumph on second, while on first will be the old stick Vogt whose single in the tenth inning at Glens Falls gave Kingston a decisive victory. In left field will be Mike Howard, in center Pop Fly Case, in right McLane. Stanley Colvin will undoubtedly travel along also. Manager Schantz has chartered Spinneweber's bus to convey the team to and from Poughkeepsie. Probably a bus load of rooters will also make the journey.

EARLY MORNING SHIPYARD FIRE

Defective electric wiring set fire to the saw mill and shed on the Raftery & Peeney boatyard on the Strand in Ponckhockie, about 8 o'clock this morning, causing an alarm of fire to be rung in from Box 19, corner Tompkins and Yomans streets, to which the fire department responded.

When the firemen arrived on the scene the fire was burning briskly. It was the prompt discovery of the fire and the calling out of the department that prevented the fire from proving more serious. Some of the lumber piled near the small shed and mill which were destroyed was scorched by the flames, but the firemen were able to prevent the fire spreading.

The boatyard office, adjoining the saw mill, was also saved.

JAIL PLEASERS GRAND JURORS

Explain Reason Why Their Work Was Conducted So Expeditiously—Make Public Record of Public Efficiency.

Before reporting to Judge Nichols in the supreme court this morning, the grand jury which has been in attendance at the present trial term of the supreme court, visited the Ulster county jail, which was thoroughly inspected.

Before coming in court, the grand jury re-assembled and adopted the following memorandum, which was filed with the clerk of the court together with the other papers which were handed up by the grand jury:

The grand jury of Ulster county in attendance at the May trial term of the supreme court respectfully files with the court at this time the following memorandum:

During ten days' session we have examined into and considered a number of cases, as more fully appears by the indictments and recommendation of dismissals filed herewith, which cases required the presence before the grand jury of eighty-two witnesses, the testimony of all of whom was heard by the grand jury within the time mentioned, a record which we do not believe has been excelled.

We call attention to this fact with feeling of just pride, but less for the purpose of seeking credit for ourselves than to bestow credit on our legal adviser, District Attorney Frederick G. Traver, who has conducted the examination in all cases presented for our consideration. Only the most painstaking care on his part in the preparation of cases enabled this large amount of work to be accomplished within that time, for which we commend him heartily. Our sincere commendation also is given to District Attorney Traver for his thorough knowledge of criminal matters and the law pertaining to the same, for his unfailing courtesy toward jurors and witnesses, for his thoughtfulness and consideration of the interests of the taxpayers and for his unswerving loyalty to the community and commonwealth he so ably represents. His deep-seated love of justice and fair play at all times have been apparent.

The Ulster county jail has been thoroughly inspected by us with results pleasing to contemplate. Its cleanly condition and the excellent care given by Sheriff William H. Koltz and his assistants are deserving of praise and should be known by the public.

For the numerous courtesies extended to the grand jury and which our observation leads us to believe is habitual toward all visitors, by the district attorney, sheriff and assistants and William P. Glass, our stenographer, the grand jury expresses its appreciation and is gratified at the opportunity of making a public record of public efficiency in this way.

Dated Kingston, N. Y., May 12, 1922.

HI-Y CLUB
ELECTS OFFICERS

Listeners To Helpful Talk On Problems That Confront College Freshmen—To Entertain Auxiliary Girls.

Wednesday evening, the Hi-Y Club met at the Y. M. C. A., for one of its most important meetings of the year. Officers for the coming year were elected and the Rev. James A. G. Moore of Cornell University was present and gave an excellent talk on "Fresh Problems in College."

Mr. Wallace of the Newburgh Y. M. C. A. was also at the meeting, to welcome the new officers and give them a few words of encouragement and advice.

The report of the nominating committee was as follows: Adolph Stumpf, president; Donald Mac Fadden, vice-president; Richard Whiston, secretary and treasurer. Ralph Longyear was also nominated from the floor for president, but Stumpf won on the ballot. So Stumpf, Mac Fadden and Whiston are the officers for the coming year.

Mr. Wallace, the Boys' Y. M. C. A. Secretary of Newburgh then congratulated the new officers on their election and reminded them that with their leadership comes a new and important responsibility.

Mr. Wallace's talk was encouraging and no doubt made the officers more anxious than ever to do their best for the club.

The Rev. Mr. Moore, who has been connected with work at Cornell for twelve years addressed the club. His subject, "Fresh Problems," was of especial importance, as many of those present were seniors in High School and will be facing college problems next fall. Mr. Moore's general advice was to go to college with one's eyes open and look things well over before making decisions. He said it is very important that the first acquaintance a fellow makes be of the right kind and urged special care in choosing one's room-mate. It is also essential that a fellow get in the right kind of fraternities and not decide rashly what ones to join.

Mr. Moore also reminded the fellows of the importance of keeping up religious connections at college, for the moral influence of such connections is often just what is needed to keep a fellow going straight. The fellows were made to feel the necessity of keeping one's morals intact from the new temptations which confront a person at college. Mr. Moore's talk was extremely interesting and helpful and was appreciated by all.

A meeting of the club is being arranged for May 24, at which the girls of the Hi-Y Auxiliary will be entertained at supper by the boys in order to show that their kind services have been fully appreciated. The fellows will act as waiters and serve the meal to the girls. A committee consisting of Harry Hutton, Vernon Beehler and Adolph Stumpf were appointed to see that necessary arrangements are made for entertaining the girls at this meeting.

Rules for Home Making.
Three rules for making a home attractive were recently given to a young married couple by an interior decorator. They were: Provide the necessary utilities, arrange an agreeable color scheme and, the final one, make the place livable.

When she was seventeen Beulah Moshier, beautiful and talented, married John Thomas Eyster, eighty-two. That was in 1915, and they separated. He died later. Looked in her heart are bitter memories that she will not voice. And out of the bargain the courts gave her one piano, a few personal effects and $300. By accepting them she virtually waives the rights she claims to other items from the estate of her wealthy husband.

ELLENVILLE.

Ellenville, May 12.—Miss Matilda Farr returned home Tuesday evening after a three weeks' visit with relatives and friends in New York city.

R. Eugene Clark and family have been visiting his mother, Mrs. R. D. Clark on Market street.

Miss Ella DeVany is home from Boston for the summer.

Dr. J. C. Coles is driving a new Cleveland Sedan.

The annual Cafeteria given by the Dorcas Society of the M. E. Church will be held Tuesday, May 16. Everything tempting at popular prices.

Many friends will be glad to learn that Dr. George F. Wilklow has improved sufficiently to be out. He left with Mrs. Wilklow this week for the bungalow at Beaver Dam expecting to spend a month or more there with hopes that the bracing Sullivan county air and the good pickerel dinners will restore his health and strength so that he will be able to resume his practice upon his return to Ellenville.

The Rev. C. S. Roberts, from Montreal, Canada, on his way to New York city to attend conference, spent a few days in Ellenville, stopping at the home of the Misses Farr.

Vernon J. Kelder of the Albany Law School, was home for the week-end.

All are invited to attend the Mothers' Day service next Sunday morning at the M. E. Church. The subject will be "Faith." The evening service at 7:30. The theme will be, "Environment." The Epworth League meeting will be led by Elsie DeVoe. League anniversary day will be observed.

ALL WANT OUR TROOPS.

It is interesting to learn that the United States government has been requested by Germany as well as by France and Great Britain to countermand the order for the return of the small contingent of American troops still at Coblenz, about 1,800 men under the command of Major-Gen. Allen. The French are said to want the American force to remain "as evidence of the alliance that achieved victory in the war" and of the continuing moral support of this country. The British are said to want the Americans to remain "because their attitude toward the people of the Rhineland is more tolerant and less irritating than that of the French." We find no explicit statement of Germany's reason for making the request, but reports indicate that the Germans have come to regard the American flag over Coblenz as a symbol of good will and fair treatment.

Contrary to report, the Americans have not fraternized with the Germans at Coblenz, and the policy of the American command has not been one of ill-judged leniency. At the same time their friendly recognition of their allies during the war has not been marked by an attitude of antagonism toward the Germans. Their well-chosen policy and its results are said to be clearly indicated in the following extract from a memorandum of one of General Allen's officers: "Our general aim has been to let the German people live their lives and conduct their own affairs as far as possible without let or hindrance from us, and we have endeavored to make the burden of our occupation as light as possible. The response of the Germans to this policy on our part has certainly been most gratifying and confirms us in our belief that we are on the right road in dealing with this question."

HOW TO SCRAP WARSHIPS.

Naval vessels to be scrapped, according to the ruling, "must be placed in such condition that they cannot be put to combatant use." This means that they cannot be sold here and there at a fair price among smaller nations likely to employ them in warfare. They must either be sunk in the sea or sold as scrap material after their power as fighting machines has been destroyed. The question as to which is the more economical is presented by the fact that to dismantle and take apart a warship costs more in labor than the materials are worth—everywhere except in Germany. In England, for example, according to the Nautical Gazette, "on ships broken up the Admiralty loses money, the price of scrap metal being inadequate to cover the labor cost."

In Germany, however, such work can be done at a profit, and it seems that Russia and France as well as England have bargained with the Germans for the breaking up of their discarded ships. Great Britain is reported to have contracted for the dismantling of 6 battleships, 8 cruisers and 12 destroyers, expecting to make "a clear profit of 40 shillings per ton over the expenses of taking ships to German ports and the cost of destruction." There could be no such profit, if any profit at all, in taking the discarded hulls of American warships all the way across the Atlantic. Nor is it likely that American sentiment would favor putting our storied old battleships in the hands of German wreckers. If our condemned ships cannot be sold to American firms with some advantage to all concerned, they are likely to be taken out to sea and sunk.

The country is much less interested in the pronouncements of the Civil Service Reform League than it is in the manner in which the public business is conducted. If the Harding administration continues to cut expenses and reduce government payrolls, the taxpayers will merely laugh at the fulminations of protestants who never successfully conducted a business of their own but pose as authorities on how a large government establishment should be conducted. By its fruits the Harding administration will be judged.

Decentralization of the income tax collection of the Internal Revenue Bureau is to be resorted to by Secretary Mellon in his drive to collect arrears of taxes extending over several years.

time. Offices are to be established on the Pacific Coast and in the Middle West so that the long trip across the continent may be obviated and much time saved to the taxpayers. It is hoped that the new system will eventually bring up to date the work of auditing the income tax returns, now some three years behind, and bring quick adjustment to claims for refunds. To expedite the work of Federal tax collecting, Mr. Mellon has appointed a tax simplification board composed of two representatives of the public and three of the Bureau, which is working out various means of facilitating the collection of taxes.

What do you want to know about Nature Subjects? Send any questions of general interest to the Nature Notes Department of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed and stamped envelope for reply.

Can You Answer These Questions?
1. Is there a plant or tree that catches and consumes mammals or even people?

2. Why do parrots have such hooked bills if they are not birds of prey?

3. What should rabbits eat?

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes.

Answers to Previous Questions.

1. Are the rings of growth at the top of a trunk of a tree fewer in number than at the base?
Yes, the annual layers of new growth lap one over the other like a nest of truncated cones with more layers at the bottom, or old part of the trunk which has had time to accumulate them.

2. What is a mongoose?

It is one of the cat-like viverrine animals, to which civet-cats belong, and comes from India, where it is found both in wild state, and domesticated. Greatly valued in India as a snake and rat killer. In 1872 the mongoose was introduced into Jamaica and later into Porto Rico and Hawaii. Though beneficial in killing pests, it proved troublesome in exterminating ground hogs and attacking poultry. The law finally forbade its importation.

3. Is the heron the same as a crane, only called differently?

No, they belong to different families, though often confused. Cranes, Gruidae, are usually larger, have close plumage partly naked head, and long but blunt-tipped bill. Nest in marshes or lonely plains, and have down-covered young that run about soon after hatching, though fed by the parents for a time. Herons, Ardeidae, have soft plumage and some have nuptial plumes. Bills long and sharp-pointed. Commonly nest in trees, in colonies, and have helpless young cared for by the parents for some time.

GREAT BARGAINS TO BE HAD IN OBESSA SHOPS

Persian Rugs Sell for $20 and Good Oil Paintings for $2 or $3.

Osessa is, and will be for a few months, the paradise of the bargain hunter. A leather valise sold in Paris or London for $60 may be had here for $5.

Persian rugs go begging at $15 to $20, rugs that in Persia would sell for $50, while the seller swears by his father's memory that he was robbing his family of daily bread.

Paintings by good artists sell for $2 or $3, with a frame thrown in worth $10 or $20. Silver tableware sells for 5 to 10 cents per ounce.

A foreigner settling here for business reasons may rent a house for $50 a year and possibly buy an indefinite lease on it for $200. The furniture, excepting the table dishes may be had for another $200; but, if there are any repairs he must pay western European wages for labor.

The reasons for these low prices of articles are that many of them were stolen, that there isn't much trade, and the original owners are selling off all their home treasures for food.

To keep alive a family of five it takes 1,000,000 rubles, or $2 a day, and the prices of food jump as the ruble drops in value.

Trade has not been so brisk here as in Moscow, as there are fewer strangers to buy. Fewer Russians can get into the city because the trains run only a few times a month, owing to lack of fuel.

At that, shops are opening daily, as the new economic policy of the Moscow government is applied. Diamonds and objects of value are covertly shown to prospective purchasers in these shops, the dealers still being in fear of the old law against speculation and free trade.

The city is full of thousands of young men and old who speak and write English, French and German, men, who in the old days of commerce, were employed about the port or with American and other foreign firms dealing with the interior. These men are glad to get work insuring $20 worth of food a month.

HOW

NEW ELECTRICAL DEVICE BENEFITS DEAF PERSONS.—An electrical device has recently been patented which, while small enough to be carried conveniently in the pocket, is said to afford very great assistance to those who have been unable to hear any but the loudest of sounds.

The phonograph, as this device is called, consists mainly of a small earpiece or receiver, weighing less than half an ounce and fitting almost invisibly into the outer ear passage, a small transmitter, measuring 2 by 4 inches and a little over a quarter of an inch in thickness, a switch and a small light battery of high storage capacity. It is claimed that this instrument enables the deaf to hear the most subdued musical sounds as well as conversational and public speaking, without the faintest suggestion of that troy tone usually noticed in sound-transmitting instruments.

The idea of electrical hearing aids is not new. Various contrivances have made their appearance for the last 18 years or so, but have had many drawbacks, such as the roaring and hissing sounds, caused by the excessive vibration of the large diaphragm, coupled with the general appearance of these contrivances with the large black box receiver held to the head by the heavy steel headband. In the phonograph the earpiece fits into the ear and, but for the slender silk connecting cord, is almost imperceptible. Even the transmitter, that part which collects the sounds, is carried completely hidden in a pocket without materially impairing its function.

The elimination of the metallic tones from the transmitted sounds has been accomplished by substituting a thin membrane in place of the metal diaphragm, an idea based upon the action of the human ear drum.

JAPS HONOR GOD OF FIRE

How Peculiar Religious Observance is Carried Out in Islands Ruled by the Mikado.

A religious observance in Japan peculiar to the coldest season of the year is that of bathing in cold water and wearing to and from the bath a single kimono of pure white, with a white band about the head.

The ceremony is out of respect to Fudo San, the god of fire, primarily. Those observing the custom carry a lantern and jingle a small bell as they go along the street. The season continues for 30 days.

The first 15 days of the season is called the daiken, or great cold, and the second 15 days the shokon, or small cold. Most of those who go through the ceremony are young men, apprentices in some trade, who run to and from the bath, repeating the words, "Rokkon Shoko," as they go.

The principal temple and bath is the one in Fukavaga Ku. The cold water bath there is open for women only until 6 o'clock in the evening, but at all hours in the day for men.

Among the women are many young actresses, who pray earnestly for success in their profession.

How Deadly Gas is Made Useful.
By mixing tear gas, developed for war use, with deadly but odorless hydrocyanic acid, a powerful disinfectant, the chemists of the chemical warfare service have made a combination that can be used safely in sanitary work.

Since the hydrocyanic acid gas kills the eggs of vermin as well as the vermin, it is one of the most effective disinfectants known. As it has no taste or smell and produces no discomfort when breathed, the first indication of its presence in the atmosphere is the collapse of the person breathing it. Tear gas is detected instantly by its irritant effect on the eyes even when the air contains only minute amounts, and the combination of the two can thus be escaped before the cyanide has a chance to act.

How Changes Affect Humanity.
Nations develop skill, prosperity, power, for awhile; then retrograde, while other nations develop.

The earth, first a ball of fire from the sun, cooled a crust; huge vegetation and animals developed. As the crust thickened, less heat has diminished, but increased qualities of plants, animals, mankind. When the earth became too cool to supply ample sustenance the human race must retrograde.

Finally our solar system will become a lifeless frozen waste. But other systems will be developed somewhere in the universe.

How Wall Street Will Guard Funds.
The Wall street messenger boy who loses or mislays the fortune in securities which is entrusted to him is soon to be replaced by a bullet-proof armored car, carrying a chauffeur and two armed guards, according to an announcement by the National Surety company.

No attempt will be made by this firm to carry all of the financial district's securities, as only those of its own patrons will be transported, but it is believed that the move for greater safety will be followed by other concerns.

Beware Snap Judgment.
Love without distinction, without procrastination, lavish it upon the poor, where it is easy; especially upon the rich who often need it most; most of all, upon our equals, where it is very difficult, and for whom, perhaps, we can do the least of all.—Buckham.

PETS OF FORTUNE

Poor Men's Lucky Strikes in Gold and Diamonds.

Parson Turn of Spade or Stroke of Pick Has Opened Path to Fabulous Riches.

A road was being made in Tanzania with stone obtained from around the New Golden Mara property, near War-catus, when it was discovered that the "road-metal" contained gold in considerable quantities. The contractors decided to use less valuable material, as this seemed like paving the road with gold.

The goose that laid the golden egg is fabulous, but the chickens with their crops stuffed with nuggets are true. A gold rush at Santa Barbara, Cal., was occasioned by the discovery of small nuggets in the crops of thirty chicks killed on a local farm. Another consequence was a great mortality among poultry to see what their crops contained in addition to corn.

A poor man in Chile bought the foundation of a house for a small sum and among the stones with which he proposed to build a wall around his garden he found one containing a large percentage of gold. He was smart enough to inquire where the stone came from originally, and lucky enough to succeed in his quest. A week's work proved the foundation of a fortune.

Two men who had prospected for gold without discovering a single trace of the precious metal, came to the end of their strength and their resources. Then one of them died. The other dug a grave and in the sad task struck a nugget weighing 180 pounds. Eventually he sold his find for more than $7,000 ($35,000).

Klondike was discovered by a half-breed trapper who, stirring the embers of his camp fire, noticed a strange yellow color for which he could not account. He mentioned the fact to his friends and within half an hour digging operations were begun. Each shovel of earth contained gold.

It was when both capital and hope were exhausted that the last stroke of the pick revealed the fabulous riches of the big Bonanza silver mines, a measure house which has yielded silver to the value of $40,000,000 ($200,000,000). The Flores mine of San Luis Potosi, Mexico, was struck by a poor priest, who bought an abandoned claim for an "old song," and his brothers named Bolados, who earned a miserable livelihood by carrying fuel, found in a crevice opened by an earthquake an enormous block of silver worth almost $1,000,000.

But the discovery of South African diamonds remains the most romantic of the world. In 1867 John O'Reilly stopped for the night at the house of a farmer named Van Nickerck. Children were playing on the floor with pretty pebbles which they had found in the river. Looking at one of the stones, O'Reilly said, "That might be a diamond."

The Boer farmer laughed and said that diamonds were not to be had for the stooping. However, O'Reilly obtained the farmer's permission to take a pebble to Cape Town, promising to give him half the proceeds if it was of value.

At Colerberg he stopped at a tavern and displayed his stone, scratching a piece of glass with it to prove his intention that it was a diamond. But the other fellows scratched glass with their gunflints and flung the pebble out of the window. O'Reilly returned it, and on reaching Cape Town he told that it was a diamond of two and a half carats. O'Reilly sold it for $900 ($3,000), and divided the amount with Nickerck.

The Boer then recalled that he had seen an immense stone of similar appearance in the hands of a Kafir witch-doctor. He found the fetish, bought the stone, and sold it immediately to an experienced diamond buyer for $11,200 ($38,000).

Not What She Expected.
A teacher in school No. 48 had left a room for a few minutes, putting her children on their honor to behave. When she returned everything was peaceful and quiet except for a ticking noise. The teacher looked out the room, trying to learn which child was making the noise, but she could not. Stamping her foot, she exclaimed, "Whoever is making that noise stand up!" The grinding stopped and a life-sized man, with a brace and a bit in his head, stood up. It was the electrician who had come into the room at the teacher's absence, and who had been lying on the floor drilling holes through the baseboard.—Indianapolis News

Java Imports Much Cotton.
As in most tropical countries, the lack of extensive manufacturing development causes the Dutch East Indies to be a large importer of manufactured goods. The most important brought in is cotton goods. In fact, the island of Java is reported to be the third largest importer of cotton goods in the world. Formerly its supply came almost entirely from England and England, but since the war this trade has been shared by Japan and the United States.

Something Just as Good.
"What," said the young husband, "can't you make your own hats, or shoes, or bread or pies—then what do you make?"
"Purchases," she answered sweetly.

A Little Imitator.
A tiny girl of five taken to a vaudeville show was much impressed with the ventriloquist. That evening while sitting her prayers she asked God to let her brothers and sisters and make her a good girl—then after a brief pause she was heard to say, "All right!"

Turks Know Nothing of Modern Business "Hustle."

Coffee "as is" Coffee Central Feature of Hospitality—Greetings Marked by Much Ceremony.

In the Levant coffee is the central feature of hospitality, the binding social link, writes a correspondent from Constantinople in the London Daily Express. Its consumption partakes of a religious ceremony and the ritual is strictly laid down.

When you call on a Turkish official, or, indeed, on any Turk you advance toward him with a sweeping movement of the right hand, touching your heart, lips and brow, which he returns. He then takes you by the right hand and ushers you to the best armchair on his right, where you settle for half a moment, then, catching his eye, you half rise; and repeat the salute, including in it all the other occupants of the room. Again a short pause, and he asks after the state of your respected health. "Praise be to God," you reply piously (meaning that you are quite well, thank you). "And your high excellency's health?" "God be praised," he returns, and when you have exhausted one another's families there ensues another and longer pause. He comes out of a profound meditation, as if a blindingly original idea had struck him. "Our high personality drinks a coffee?" he inquires, his hand hovering over the little bell inseparable from a Turkish office table. You assent, and the bell is struck. A servant enters, buttoning up his coat in token of respect and folding his hands over his stomach.

Every Turkish office, from the prime minister's to the mudir's in an outlying village, has an authorized coffee-maker attached to it. His function is to lighten the dull round of daily toll by ministering to very cultivated palates.

Before he touches the coffee it has been slowly roasted in an inclined revolving cylinder over an ash or charcoal fire, and then ground to a fine powder; to insure absolute smoothness this powder is hammered on an anvil, a most tedious proceeding. This final perfect quintessence of coffee is mixed with the accurate quantity of sugar specified, and the water added in the "brik" or "jerve" which are two names for the same little saucepan. The jerve is pushed reverently among the ashes, which are then fanned to the required temperature, and the coffee is three times brought to the boil and three times cooled by the addition of a few drops of water. Then once more for luck, and it is poured into little cups without handles, like the slop-basin of a doll's tea set, placed on a brass tray and offered to the guest.

After all this you may get on with your business, if you haven't forgotten what it was.

Lost and Found.

Umbrellas are lost and found frequently enough, but seldom is one the means of helping one person to find another. In his recent volume on book collecting Mr. A. Edward Newton says that while he was at a hospital in London he was anxious to have a certain bookseller come and see him; he tells how his umbrella helped to fulfill his wish.

My uncle, he says, had never seen Mr. Hunt, who kept a bookshop at some distance from the hospital, and since he had been in London only forty-eight hours he did not know his way round and was as nervous as a hen. I told him as well as I could where the shop was, and he started off. As he went I noticed that he was carrying my umbrella, which has a curious horn handle studded with roundheaded tacks.

He promptly lost his way, and an hour later my friend, Mr. Hunt, who was hurrying along the crowded Strand, saw a man apparently looking for some one or something and carrying my umbrella. Calling my uncle by name—he had heard me speak of him—he asked if he could direct him anywhere. My uncle was amazed and conducted my friend, or rather was conducted by him, to my bedside—Youth's Companion.

Rays From Human Hand.

A member of the faculty of the University of Pennsylvania made X-ray photographs by means of secondary radiations from his hand exposed to the action of a Crookes tube, which was so screened that its rays could not directly reach the photographic plate. Other things besides the hand, such as pieces of wood, zinc, and brass, were found to possess a similar property of being excited to the emission of invisible rays by the action of the tube. On two occasions the investigator has suffered from inflammation of the eyes and throat when sleeping in a room where X-ray experiments had been conducted, and he thinks the cause may have been the secondary radiation from the air or the objects in the room.

Foreigners in New York.

Of the 10,385,227 inhabitants of New York state, 6,834,460 or 65.9 per cent, are natives of that state, according to an announcement of the census bureau of the Department of Commerce. Less than 1,000,000 of the population were born in other states, while almost 3,000,000 were born in foreign countries. The percentage of native Americans in the state had increased from 69.8 in 1910 to 72.8 in 1920, with an equal reduction in the percentage of foreign born residents.

Home-Having Hearts Are Best.

A bride with a house is a bride worth having in Berlin, the London Mail declares, and matrimony has boomed for house owneresses. Not even during the war years were there as many marriages as last year. During 1911 Berlin registers showed 37,798 marriages, while 53,091 took place in 1920.

One of the chief attractions of marriage is the certainty of getting a house, for the authorities give the bride and bridegroom preference over ordinary people, and a bachelor anxious to settle down, finds that even in expensive Berlin married life with a home of your own is cheaper than hotel and restaurant life.

Art Prize Discovered.

An early Rembrandt, the authenticity of which is vouched for by several well-known experts, has been discovered in a little town in the Harz. The picture, which is said to have been painted in the year 1630 or 1631, is executed upon an octagonal oak panel measuring 22 inches in height by 16 inches in width. The subject is an old man of distinguished appearance. The picture is still in its original pine-wood frame overlaid with horn, which is declared by one expert to have been specially made according to Rembrandt's instructions.

Mrs. Kolozynski and children

Bayden Bannas, of Detroit, hearing that a friend was hard up and needed one dollar, purchased a wife, an eighteen-year-old boy, nine-year-old girl and a baby in order to help out. The eighteen-year-old boy, however, had been imbued with considerable Americanism and notified the police. Result: Bannas loses the family and his dollar, while Kolozynski, who made the sale, will have an excellent opportunity to convince a Federal deportation board that he doesn't want a free trip back to Europe.

The marital bark of Constance Talmadge and John Piniglow, her millionaire husband, will be scrapped if, the famed film star has her way. She has filed suit for divorce in a Los Angeles court. The rock in the sea of matrimony was reported several months ago, but Miss Talmadge at that time denied that there were differences between herself and husband.

The two Portuguese airmen, Naval Captains Cabral and Coutinho, who attempted to fly from Lisbon to Rio de Janeiro, met with a mishap at St. Paul's Rock, near the Equator, 1,600 miles from their destination. The machine was damaged beyond repair, but the airmen were unhurt. The Portuguese Government rushed them another machine by cruiser. Upper picture shows hydroplane being hauled ashore at St. Vincent on one leg of the flight, while lower shows children excitedly watching its arrival at St. Vincent.

BADGE GAVE HIM DISTINCTION

Persian Youngster Had Method in "Madness" Which American Nurses Could Not Understand.

Among my patients at the dispensary in Teheran was a small boy with a charming and impudent face, writes Mary W. Grierson in Asia Magazine. He wore the sleeves and part of the back of a coat and enough of a pair of loose trousers to hitch up with both hands occasionally. When I asked him where he lived, he said, "Anywhere." At every question he simply shrugged his shoulders, unclasped his hands and repeated, "Who knows?" The nurse thought he was five. One of the patients guessed eight. But I insisted that so much philosophy could not have been developed under 10, and, since he had his 12-year molars, I put him down at that age. He refused to remain in any permanent shelter and preferred to live like a little gypsy. He had contracted typhus on the street and recovered on the street. One of the members of the Near East commission had referred him to me because of some ugly sores on his head. He improved steadily under the treatment, but begged me to give him the medicine instead of making him come to the dispensary. But I knew he would gamble the medicine away and insisted that he come for a dressing every other day. At the Persian New Year, when it was already growing warm, he appeared with a heavy felt cap, a new coat and an overcoat, which he said his employer had given him; for he boasted of being a laboring man. His pay was a quarter of a cent a day and his food, a flap of bread. When his head was cured and the bandages removed, he lamented loudly and rushed off, dragging back by the hand the member of the commission who had brought him to me and begging tearfully and eloquently to have his beautiful bandages again. Day after day he returned and begged for his bandages. Finally I learned that in the intervals between working in the tobacco shop for a quarter of a cent a day, he had lucrative employment as a beggar—and the bandage gave him pathetic distinction.

Horse-Raising States.

Ninety per cent of the 25,000,000 horses and mules in the United States are on farms, and only about 10 per cent are in cities, towns, villages and other non-agricultural work, according to advance figures of the 1920 census. It is natural that the ten central states of the great corn belt—Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Nebraska and the two Dakotas—where coarse grains are raised in plenty, should be the great reservoir of horse and mule production, rearing approximately three-fifths of all the horses and mules in the country.

The farmers of this section producing horses and mules, supply their own needs, furnish work stock for adjoining farms where horses and mules are not reared, also the heavy drafters wagon horses and expressers wanted in cities, towns and villages, and the farm chunks for eastern states where horse and mule production is not so common.

Tricks in All Trades.

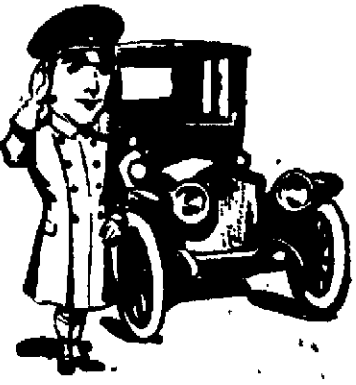

Notwithstanding the efforts of librarians at the Central library to cooperate with school teachers in keeping reviews of classics out of the hands of high school pupils, who have discovered that required classics need not be read if one only can get one's hands on reviews, the pupils contrive in some instances to get the books that mean shortcuts in their courses. All of which explains, according to librarians, why the Edinburgh Review was among the library's "best sellers" last week. A Shortridge pupil discovered a synopsis and comments on "Macbeth" and "Lady of the Lake" in some dusty volume of the Edinburgh paper published in 1800. Other pupils were "tipped off" and so the Edinburgh Review became suddenly popular.—Indianapolis News.

HISTORY IN HUMAN BODIES

Many Long-Divided Muscles Tell the Story of Mankind Throughout the Ages.

For at least 50,000,000 years the world forces have been making the animal body, yet today, in the finished product of the human machine, expert investigators have found no fewer than 107 organs or parts of organs which are more or less useless, says a London Tit-Bits writer.

Why, for instance, have we hair on our bodies? There is not a word to be said in favor of it, harboring as it does dirt and microbes. It has been artificially fostered during the course of mankind's history and is a vestige of the warm fur coat of mammals in the ice age.

Again, the pieces of gristle or cartilage on the sides of the head which we call our ears are similar organs. They do not catch waves of sound as many suppose; they are too flat to do so. But if we compare them with the movable ears of the horse we see what they mean.

They were once similar organs, but now only an individual here and there can use one of the seven muscles under the skin from which it is obvious that the ear could once be moved in every direction.

There are many similar muscles in the body today which still as about a strange past. Some men can twitch their nostrils. Some men can move their scalps. They do so by means of muscles which in most of us have gone completely out of use.

In the inner corner of each eye we have a little pulp mass which recalls to use even remoter ages of the body's past. It is of no use whatever in the body today, but is a relic of a "third eyelid." To understand it, one has to watch a parrot or an eagle in a cage and notice how the bird flashes a white film occasionally over its eyeball. Our eyelids are now a better apparatus for sweeping the dust off our eyeballs.

In the remote ages there were animals with a third eye in the top of the head. We find it in the heads of a few reptiles, but the skin has grown over it. In man it has become a small body about the size of a hazel nut, rising from the middle of the brain. It is a mysterious organ, and, while it is difficult to say it has no function, we can clearly trace it to the third eye of millions of years ago.

The "verruiform appendix"—the source of appendicitis—has been removed from hundreds of thousands of people in modern times, and no harm has ensued in any single case, and it seems to have no use in the body.

One of the strongest links with the past is the vestige of a tail. Sometimes today children are born with distinct and movable—though very short—tails. In addition, a writer in part 8 of "The Outline of Science" declares we have bones, muscles and glands in many parts that are now useless relics of a remote past.

Beast's Wonderful Sagacity. Volumes have been written on the life of bees; so full of interest in their habits, their laws and government. A queen is their greatest treasure, and they will guard her as their lives, but only one queen is tolerated, although it would have at times that two queens will be hatched.

When this does occur a deadly combat begins the moment that the queen emerges from their cradles, and this was first to remark an extraordinary feature in connection with the queen. Each time that the queens present their entrances to each other, such a fashion that the drawing of the sting would prove mutually fatal. The two warriors, stricken with simultaneous terror, divide and fly, only to meet shortly after and separate again should the double disaster threaten the future of their people. At this, however, one of them is bound to proceed in surprising her chamber of wary rival and in killing her without risk to herself, for the law of the hive has called for one sacrifice. HEALTH SERVICE BATTLES VICE

SCIENCE OUSTS SENTIMENT

Little Known Government Bureau Saves Many Millions.

Social Hygiene Board is Interdepartmental Body Which Has Become New and Powerful Force Now at Work Throughout the Nation—Bad Social Conditions, According to Physicians, Are Responsible for 1,500,000 Cases of Disease Every Year.

When a new chief of police was appointed recently in Washington the announcement went forth that gamblers, bookmakers, drug peddlers and other forms of underworld entertainers had better seek fresh fields for their game. Those forms of vice which exist in every city which has no strong civic consciousness were running wild in Washington. They were run very quietly, but the door was always open.

With the announcement that the new chief of police would start a determined effort to clean up the capital city, a little known bureau of government stepped forward with a long list of places on which evidence had been obtained. Vice was rampant on the very doorsteps of the capitol building itself, the report showed. A congressional investigation is under way to verify this report and find way this condition exists in defiance of the law.

The quiet government bureau which had collected these facts goes by the name of the United States Interdepartmental social hygiene board. The "interdepartmental" comes from the fact that the secretaries of war, the navy and the treasury are on the board, as are the surgeon generals of the army, navy and public health service. The active head of the board is a woman, Dr. Valeria H. Parker, who has had wide experience in social work. Before accepting the position as Uncle Sam's watchdog over the young men in the nation's armed forces, Dr. Parker was chairman of the social hygiene committee of the National League of Women Voters and a member of the section of delinquency of the National Conference of Social Work.

The government's war on vice is organized through this bureau. The board is definitely charged with the duty of protecting the health of the men in uniform while they are in civilian communities. So well has the work been done that in one year it is estimated that over $1,000,000 was saved the government. This amount would have been spent in the hospitalization of infected men, had not the number of infections been greatly reduced. The cost of the work has been about $225,000. It is a paying proposition.

Science Supplants Sentimentality. The government's war on vice represents a new and powerful force at work throughout the nation today. Science, substituted for sentiment is giving the world a new sense of public safety.

The scientific side of reforms and reformers is the view taken by the interdepartmental social hygiene board. Interested in the health of the nation, the scientific side of health and disease is being preached at every opportunity through public health meetings in every state, attended by medical men, public health officers and representatives of societies interested in the question. The moral side of the question is being left to the churches, as falling properly within their province.

The medical approach to the subject by the hygiene board is short and direct. "Science has proved that no way has been found to make vice safe. Therefore the only safe thing to do is to attack vice." This plan has a proven record and is an excellent example of the "cheaper to prevent than cure" policy of modern medical practice.

Just how heavy the vice toll becomes was gathered from the records of the public health service, which is working at the problem as it affects civilians, while the social hygiene board handles the military end of the matter. Physicians of the service estimate that about 1,500,000 cases of diseases due solely to bad social conditions occur each year.

From the medical standpoint this means great danger of passing on to the next generation a virulent bacillus so insidious in its effect that few children live under the handicap and those who do are sickly and weak. From the national standpoint there is the danger of losing effective citizens.

Vice Cost is Big. The social hygiene board places the cash cost of this social folly merely among the soldiers in the army during the war period at $72,000,000. In 1919 the cost in the army was placed at $15,000,000. The cost was cut in 1920 to about $3,000,000. It is about one-third less this last year, due to the more effective preventive work, previously mentioned.

In civilian circles medical records are harder to obtain. The accurate type of record kept by the army and navy is not available for civilian affairs. But the draft records show that in civilian life at least $34,000,000 a year is the wage loss alone, due to these social diseases. This is simply the amount lost due to the inability of people so afflicted to perform any useful work. The figure is based on a daily wage of only $4 and is probably low, as disease plays no favorites, but hits all classes of society, rich and poor alike.

The American Social Hygiene society which has long conducted a war against this plague estimates that the complete cost of these ills, largely preventable, is $128,000,000 in one year. Illinois, alone. Ohio's cost is placed by authorities at about $100,000,000. These figures include items such as doctor's fees, lost wages, expensive drugs needed for the cure, which are not met by the individual, then partial costs for maintaining hospitals for the insane and the blind, the cost of treating women who become infected through marriage and are forced to undergo complicated operations, much of which is met by the taxpayer, for much of this work is done at public expense, for the general protection of all.

The old idea that segregated districts tended toward safety in vice has been exploded. It is claimed, as the disease rate among troops in America was about one-third that of troops in foreign countries, where the open districts were in operation.

Vice cannot be abolished by laws, the board holds. Education along the proper lines of sex is essential. The subject which has been hidden under a blanket of assumed innocence must be exposed to the light of understanding. The cure will be brought about that way.

Dr. Parker declared that boys are naturally just as clean-minded as girls. Yet boys, she holds, do not receive in the average home the same instruction on physical questions which come to the girls. The result is that the girls are more clean-minded at the critical age. But she also added that the whole subject does not receive the attention it needs as a primary one in life. The home, the church, the schools, all sidestep, she declared, and when sex becomes part of a boy's life he has had little instruction and is generally allowed to drift along as best he can, exposed to the bad influence, too often, of commercialized vice.

Predicts Tighter Laws. The laws in the United States, Dr. Parker believes, as they relate to this question, will become more stringent as time goes on. The United States is leading among the nations in taking action on this question. Regarding the enforcement of prohibition, it was thought that the question would gradually work itself out, when more people had paid the price of blindness or death from bootleg poison. But by stringent laws, it is not meant that the movies would be darkened or that grandma's pipe would be taken away. The entrance of women into politics probably will lead to more effective laws and heavier penalties for vice operators.

The work of the board throughout the nation is carried on through nine district officials, each a field representative. These in turn are aided by field agents, located in cities near the army and navy posts. The field agents keep in touch with the medical officers of the armed forces and receive weekly reports as to how much or how little commercialized vice in each locality is undermining the health of the men. Closing the real light district in one city resulted in cutting the disease rate from 109 to 27, which is cited as a "health example in disease prevention."

The field agents keep in touch with the municipal, county and state health officials, police officers and other organizations. Thus, very accurate figures are obtainable on the commercialized vice question. The board's figures are also good indicators of the conditions which exist among the civilian population. Through these field officers the board is quickly able to place its hands on the vice situation in any part of the country. The results have been that seventy-seven districts have been closed, and that hundreds of cities have staged "clean-ups" which will have an important effect on the future generations of Americans.

BURIED IN POTATOES

Wayfarer's Head Was Only Part Visible When Car Was Opened.

Starving to death with nothing around him but food, a wayfarer who gave his name as John Smith of Virginia was found buried up to his neck in potatoes when the door of a freight car was opened by the employee of a fruit dealing company at Sunbury, Pa., one day recently.

The man's arms were pinioned by the tubers and he could not move his head. Shifting of the load by the jolting of the car was the cause of his predicament, Smith said, and he asserted he had been helpless for three days.

He was ravenous, but had no chance of even biting into a potato, so tightly was his head pinioned. The car came from Avoca, N. Y.

PASTOR A STUDENT

Has Enrolled in High School and Goes There.

One of the regularly enrolled pupils at the high school is Rev. D. C. Lockwood, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church at Eureka, Cal. Every day when the school gong rings Lockwood, books under his arm, tramps into the class room with the rest of the pupils and takes his seat.

The preacher is not a "special" student, but is taking a full course, several of his subjects being English, drama, Spanish and glee club work. In addition, he says, he is taking another subject, "the psychology of the young idea." His work in this consists of studies of his classmates.

A mass meeting for men will be held next Thursday evening in St. Mary's Hall at 7:45 o'clock. There will be free movies and Dr. Mark O'Meara will preside. Dr. Read will be the principal speaker.

Friday evening a mass meeting for women will be held at the same place and at the same hour. Dr. Mary Gage-Day will preside and either Dr. Read or Dr. Croft will be the principal speaker.

Plans are also being made to hold meetings in the Palen plant, Cornell shops, the Barth plant, Fessenden's shirt factory, the boat yards and the U. & D. shops.

Dr. Read will be assisted by Drs. Guerdon, Croft, and Day during the week.

It is also planned to have speakers present next week at the meetings of the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs, the Masonic bodies, the Knights of Columbus, the I. O. O. F., and in every public and parochial school in the city.

This campaign is part of a state, national and international movement in an effort to educate the people to the necessity of keeping physically fit.

At the two mass meetings to be held in St. Mary's Hall the screen play for the women's meeting Friday is "The End of the Road," and Thursday at the men's meeting, "Tragedies of Real Life." These meetings are free and open to the public and it is expected that there will be a large attendance.

CHILDLESS PAIR ADOPT FAMILY

Devoted to Six Children Orphaned by Tragedy.

LOVE REIGNS IN HAPPY HOME

All Are Joyously Awaiting Papa's Return From Vaudeville Tour When There Will Be Grand Reunion at Their Long Branch Summer Home—Children Range in Ages From Twenty-one to Eight and All Have Been Adopted by Couple.

Lynbrook, L. L. has a mystery which the police are not going to be called upon to unravel. It is this: Did Slim Collins and his wife, Lillian, the vaudeville team of Collins and Hart, adopt the six children of Joseph Capullo or did the Capullo children adopt the Collinses? The real mother of the six died some years ago. The father was shot and killed last Christmas by another Italian whom he had befriended, Pasquale Viola, who is now serving a sentence in Sing Sing for the killing.

Mrs. Collins, without children of her own, had mothered the family before the father was killed, just as she had mothered some twenty other children of other unions before that, but those twenty, after they had been prepared for the battle of life, had either left of their own accord or had been taken away by relatives who could find them useful. So that she wouldn't lose these Mrs. Collins has taken out adoption papers, which will be recorded after they have been signed by her husband, Slim, who is now playing an engagement in California.

The children have fitted themselves into their new environment with wonderful contentment. The oldest, John, is twenty-one and is now an automobile mechanic. The youngest, Fifi, is eight.

"Why Not?" Slim Asks.

"Why shouldn't we adopt them?" said Slim Collins to the New York World correspondent in San Francisco, answering a question about it. My wife is fond of children and of the Capullo children generally. As a matter of fact we have had three of them for some time, and when the father was shot we took the others and have decided to formally adopt the whole family. We are comfortable financially and can afford it."

It is a well balanced family the Collinses have taken into their hearts and home. There are three boys and three girls. The oldest is John Bernard, who is twenty-one. Then comes Marie Elizabeth, seventeen. Adolphus Sims, fifteen; Edward Henry, thirteen; Pauline Lucile, eleven; Fifi Adolphus, eight.

Mr. Collins, one of them is his wife, and "they are wonderfully fond of him. All their plans and enterprises, and they are an extraordinary lot, seem to center around how "papa" will like it when he comes in from the road.

Little Fifi. For instance, there is little Fifi. She is a dark, sprightly little elf, and was having a great time dancing around the yard, trying to balance a long wooden lath on the tip of her finger when a reporter visited the happy family.

"I'm taking dancing lessons," she said cheerfully, "and I'm doing fine. You know mamma was a great dancer, and she has been teaching me, but she isn't so well now. Papa will be awfully surprised when he comes home and sees me dance for him."

Adolphus, interested in chicken culture, rushed straight on his feathered pets when he came in from school. "I have twenty-five chickens now and we are getting twelve eggs a day," he said.

"Do you sell any?" he was asked. "No; we use them. You see down here we have to pay 75 cents a dozen for eggs when we buy them."

Adolphus is Mechanical.

Mrs. Collins thinks Adolphus' principal bent, however, is mechanical. Just as is that of his oldest brother, John. He was the first of the Capullo to come around the Collins domicile. First he came as a boy to do chores after school hours, and his visits and employments became longer until, at the time of his mother's death, he was living at the Collinses. One by one the other children followed him, and then when the father was killed Mrs. Collins decided to adopt the whole family. She had the papers drawn up and signed, and they will be completed and recorded as soon as Slim comes home from the coast to sign them.

Marie Elizabeth is the assistant mother of the family. When Mrs. Collins is away she is the head of the family, and the children obey her as promptly and as cheerfully as they do their "mamma." Marie expects to qualify as a secretary, and has been taught with that object in view. For the past couple of seasons she has had summer employment as bookkeeper and amanuensis in one of the summer enterprises at Long Beach.

It is only the youngest half of the family that has theatrical ambitions. Edward Henry is determined to be a comedian "like papa," who is some pumpkins as an acrobatic comedian, with a penchant for carrying animals that can do funny stunts. He has a nifty parrot helping him with his act now.

"They are all splendid children," said Mrs. Collins. "My home is big, and each of them has a room to himself or herself. They are willing and ambitious, and are quite a comfort. They write a letter to 'papa' every day, and he writes one to them. His letters are important events in their lives."

Plenty of Room for 'Em.

Mrs. Collins is raising the children in the Catholic faith of their father, but when they come to a proper age she isn't going to try to influence them in the matter, though she too is Catholic.

She has all sorts of attractions to keep the children at home, and they can have a better time there than anywhere else. The house contains a dance hall and a billiard room, and Mrs. Collins encourages other young people to come often. When the reporter was there five children came in to play with the little ones in the after-school hour. Two of them were the Kaufman twins, children of Jack Kaufman of the vaudeville team of Kaufman and Kaufman.

And now they are all longing for an early return of "Papa" Collins, when there'll be a grand time at the summer home in Long Beach.

WILDCAT'S BAD AIM

Intended to Land on Automobile, but Got into a Water Trough.

A huge wildcat, measuring 42 inches from nose to tip of tail, leaping from the branches of a tree onto an automobile party, near Clearfield, Pa., missed its mark and landing in a water trough, died there after a desperate battle with Joe Lehman, who seized it and held it under the water until it had "lost all of its wildness."

The cat evidently aimed to fasten its fangs in Joe Knepp, one of the party, but Knepp is an old wildcat hunter and dodged. Lehman was beside the trough when the cat went under the water, and he quickly seized the animal by the ruff of the neck under the ear and put a "choker" on it. The battle that followed was something to talk about. Yelling to Lehman to hold on, the others groped about in the darkness for clubs or any other weapon. Lehman, when he realized what he was holding, needed no urging to "hold tight." He succeeded in keeping the cat's head under water until a piece of telephone wire made into a noose was slipped around its neck and it was strangled.

CAKE MAKER IS FOUND

Woman Placed Pastry Aboard Marshal Foch's Train.

A search over two states for the maker of a famous angel food cake which was supposed to have been placed on board Marshal Foch's special train at Greenwood, S. C., on December 6, has apparently resulted in the discovery that a Mrs. Harris of Charlotte, N. C., is the maker.

Part of the cake was eaten by Alton T. Roberts, national committeeman of the American Legion, of Marquette, Mich., and since that time, according to a letter from Mrs. Roberts to the local Legion post, Roberts has driven their cook to the point of insanity, attempting to duplicate the cake. Mrs. Roberts wrote the local Legionnaires to procure, if possible, another cake from the same maker and send it to her in time for her husband's birthday.

A letter received a few days ago from Mrs. A. B. Cheatham of Charlotte stated that a friend of hers, a Mrs. Harris, was the maker of famous angel food cakes and had presented the Foch party with one, packed in the kind of hat box Mrs. Roberts described.

SHE GOT ACTION AT ONCE

New Policewoman Learns Incidentally What Not to Do.

How to pull a police call was a subject to which Miss Esther Ferguson, colored policewoman, recently appointed, is now giving close attention. She had made her first arrest. Towing three men to the nearest police box, she reached in and pulled the first handle her hand came to. When the patrol wagon didn't arrive at once, she pulled it twice again.

Two patrol wagons of bluecoats, two speedsters carrying eight vice squad detectives, a detective automobile with six detectives aboard, three detectives on foot and a motorcycle policeman speeded to the scene and preparations were made to rush men from precinct stations with riot guns.

GIRL SINGS TENOR

Has a Range of Two and One-Half Octaves in Her Voice.

A girl with an exceptionally pleasing man's tenor voice, which has a range of two and one-half octaves, is attending Stephen's college at Columbia, Mo. She is Miss Mary McLenahan, twenty years old, of Marshall, Mo. Her range is from an octave above middle "C" to an octave and one-half below.

She attended Lindenwood college at St. Charles for two years, and last year took lessons in Kansas City. She plans to engage in Chautauqua work this summer and go on a vaudeville circuit in the fall.

Hen Lays Two Eggs in Hour.

The laying of two eggs within one hour was the unusual performance of Biddy, a hen, entered in an egg-laying contest at the Connecticut Agricultural college, at Hartford, Conn., by T. J. Ensign, of Hackettsville, N. J.

Hindu Legend.

In Tiruvannamalai, South Ascot, India, a great fire festival is held each year, the inception of which recalls one of the famous legends connected with Hindu mythology. Many years ago, the legend runs, Siva, the destroyer, and his wife, Paravati, were wandering through Kailasa, the Hindu paradise. It was the twilight hour, and the flower garden in which they strolled was filled with the seductive perfumes of the East. In a flirtatious moment Paravati playfully covered the eyes of her lord with her shapely hands and drew the godly head to her bosom. The time quickly passed for these wanderers in Elysium. But what seemed but a moment to them was a period of many years for the hapless inhabitants of the world, whose sun and moon had thus been darkened. When Siva realized the hardship which his wife's coquetry had caused he sent her forth to do penance at the various holy places with which the southern portion of India is dotted. When she at last reached Tiruvannamalai, the famous "Holy Fire Hill" of South Ascot district, Siva appeared at the top of the isolated peak as a sign that his wife's thoughtlessness was forgiven.

Gigantic Transformer.

One million volts is the capacity of a mammoth transformer which has recently been installed in the Westinghouse experimental laboratory at Trafford City, Pa. The huge product possesses unusual winding features, that make it exceptionally well fitted for very high voltage testing, and is of the core form of construction, common to this type of transformer. The windings contain nearly 70 miles of wire, are divided into cylindrical coils, each consisting of a layer of copper turns wound upon an insulating tube, and as the coils increase in diameter they decrease in length. With the completion of the new transformer, experiments more reliable in character can be made by delivering the full 1,000,000 volts "above ground," and it is believed that this latest development will prove of great value to electrical progress.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

MOTORSHIP MAKES NOTABLE VOYAGE

Performance of the William Penn Interests Shipping People.

AROUND WORLD IN 197 DAYS

Experts See Evidence of Advance in New Type of Boat Propulsion—No Expenditure for Repairs and a Saving of $70,000 in Fuel Are Outstanding Features of Maiden Journey of the Shipping Board Motor Ship William Penn.

A voyage around the world in 197 days, covering 28,500 miles; no expenditure for repairs and a saving of $70,000 in fuel are the outstanding features of the maiden journey of the shipping board motor ship William Penn.

The performance of the William Penn has been watched with unusual interest by shipping men as an outstanding test of the value of the Diesel, or internal combustion, engine, compared with the steam power now generally in use on ocean vessels throughout the world.

As a result of the voyage Cramp engineers predict a more rapid growth of motor ship tonnage. It is pointed out that, as a result of greater economies, practically all of the motor ships in various countries, regardless of age, are in active use, while a large proportion of the steamships are now idle.

The Diesel motor still is in process of development and is in use chiefly on freight vessels up to 12 knots speed and 12,000 tons. Experiments on faster and larger ships are in contemplation.

First Large Motor Ship. The William Penn has the distinction of being the first large American motor ship suitable for deep-sea cargo trade. She is operated by the Barber Steamship lines for the shipping board and recently returned to New York. Mr. Metten describes her voyage as follows:

"The Penn is 455 feet over all, with a draft of 28 feet loaded, of 12,375 tons deadweight carrying capacity. She is propelled by two Cramp-Burmeister & Wain type six-cylinder Diesel engines, having cylinders of 20 1/2-inch diameter and 45 1/2-inch stroke, each engine directly connected to a propeller through shafting, the vessel being twin-screw. The engines are designed to develop together 4,500 indicated horsepower when turning at 115 revolutions per minute. There are, in addition, three auxiliary Diesel engines, each directly connected to 65-k. w. generators.

"There are several sister hulls, equipped with either steam turbines or reciprocating engines, which have been laid up for the last year due to their inability to run at a profit, while the motorship William Penn has been able to show a fair return to the owners and operator during the recent slump in shipping.

"The William Penn left New York on September 3, 1921, stopping at Savannah to complete loading. She then sailed to the Far East via Panama canal and Honolulu. The first stop to discharge cargo was at Yokohama. The vessel then proceeded in succession to Kobe, Shanghai, Foochow, Swatow, Hongkong and Manila. At the latter named place unloading was completed and loading again commenced for the return voyage. Stops were made at Cuba, Philippine Islands, Surabaya, Singapore, Straits Settlements, Suez, Port Said, Marseille, London, Rotterdam and Liverpool. From the latter place the vessel sailed on March 6 for New York in ballast, arriving on the afternoon of the 19th, after having experienced some very severe gales in the North Atlantic, the wind at one time attaining a velocity of 110 miles an hour.

Ready for Another Trip. "After this long trip of nearly 30,000 miles the vessel returned to its home port with propelling machinery in perfect condition, with no expenditures required for repairs, and ready to put to sea again after refueling.

"The longest non-stop run was from Singapore to Suez, or 4,943 nautical miles, taking nearly eighteen days, with a mean speed of 11.48 knots. "The oil consumption of main and auxiliary engines was 13.41 tons per day. This total consumption is less than one-third that required for the sister hulls having geared steam turbines, the motorship in addition making from one knot to one and one-half knots better speed. In port, when loading or unloading the auxiliary engines consume for the twenty-four hours about 150 gallons per day, or 48 tons, which is less than one-tenth that for an equivalent steamer.

"The best speed was made the day before arrival in New York, which was 12.8 knots, with engines developing 4,700 indicated horsepower, thus proving that Diesel engines do not fall off in power at the finish of a long run, as is usual with the steam plant.

"The total time required for the voyage, counting twenty-four hours to the day, was 197 days. The total number of days in the various ports was eighty-six. The time at sea was 106 days."

Largest Goldfish Hatchery in World. Toledo, O., boasts of the largest goldfish hatchery in the world. Twenty-five carloads of goldfish and 20 carloads of fish globes were shipped by the firm controlling the hatchery during 1921.

Plants That Catch Cold. That trees, like human beings, are liable to catch cold, was a point in a paper on "The Relation of Soil to Plant Growth," read in England at the Surveyors' Institution. "Plants respond to changes in environment," said the author.

PLAN TO REDEEM FIRST OFFENDERS

Government Heads Favor Idea of Outdoor Prison.

FORCED BY CRIME INCREASE

Uncle Sam Faces Housing Problem for Offenders Against the Federal Statutes—President Harding and Attorney General Daugherty Favor Turning Camp Grant Into Reform Farm for Rehabilitation of First Offenders.

Ever since selling liquor became illegal in the United States, prohibitionists and those holding the opposite view have been more or less continually engaged in hurling figures at each other to prove that crime has increased or decreased, according to which side has the floor, since the inauguration of the so-called dry era.

Those who have made a study of criminology know that there are many factors which enter into the cause of court convictions. Whatever the cause, there has been a big increase in the more serious offenses, dating from about the end of actual hostilities abroad.

Complete records for the whole country, showing offenses for which convictions have been secured, would require a great deal of time and far more space than is available. Any effort to trace down the causes of such a great number of convictions for real crimes is virtually an impossibility. Whatever the causes are, it is a fact that the federal prisons throughout the country are practically full to capacity.

Hard to Find Jail Room.

Thus the federal government is faced with a housing problem for offenders against federal statutes. It has been found that if the ware of crime continues at the pitch it has maintained more or less steadily for many months, there will be no place to put the convicted law breakers.

The situation has been brought to the attention of Attorney General Daugherty, and by him taken up with President Harding. These two, on their recent Florida trip, gave this subject serious thought and have about agreed on a plan for the attempted rehabilitation of some of the offenders.

The idea is to secure one of the former army camps and convert it into a government reservation for the mental and moral reconstruction of federal offenders who are not hardened nor habitual criminals.

Agreement between the President, and his attorney general has reached the point. It is understood, where the plan is bound to go through unless some obstacle now unforeseen should arise. It is understood that the site of Camp Grant, at Rockford, Ill., has been chosen for this governmental experiment in redeeming youthful offenders against federal statutes and first offenders regardless of age.

Old Ideas Are Discarded.

Years ago it was found that solitary confinement is a barbarous thing, often leading to mental deterioration, even to insanity. In prisons nowadays attention is given to exercise and work with which to occupy the minds of the prisoners. Baseball and open-air sports have their place in the schedule of the activities of most, if not all, institutions of this kind.

In the proposed experiment at Camp Grant, the first offenders and young criminals will be taken a step further, and a scientific effort made to eradicate criminal tendencies and make useful members of society of these men.

The main point in the system will be to train these men to trades, if they have none, and perfect in their callings those who already have a start. It is planned to provide for instruction and practice in a wide number of vocations. Farming, it is expected, will come in for a large share of attention. The recognized trades, however, are expected to engage the attention of the greatest number of prisoners.

Recently the land comprising Camp Grant was condemned. The government can secure possession of the tract for the purposes of the department of justice under the right of eminent domain.

One of the big steps forward in treatment of convicted offenders in the last few decades has been to get away from the old idea of forbidding prison walls, as well as the old idea of punishment by solitary confinement. At Camp Grant it is not planned to have anything like the ordinary prison. It will be really a prison farm.

The metal trades, horseshoeing, carpentry, bricklaying, farming, cabinet-making and every occupation for which instruction is desired will be provided at this proposed outdoor prison camp at Camp Grant. In addition, the men who desire it will receive general education to fit them to be useful members of society instead of parasites. Every effort will be made to show these men practically that crime as a means of livelihood does not pay in dollars and cents anything like the dividends that honest work will produce.

Triplets for Man 54, and Wife, 44. Henry Spiffell, 54, four years old, and his wife, forty-four years old, of Walnut Ridge, Ark., are the parents of triplets, two girls and a boy. The couple have been married a little more than one year.

Actonism. A little while ago, in response to an expressed need for some word which would indicate optimism plus action, the word "actonism" was coined. An actonist is an optimist who makes the most of every opportunity to apply his optimism and who does not confine his efforts to breezy sayings.—Journal of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry.

Repulsive Birds. The greatest bird gourmand is the vulture of southern Europe. Seven vultures can strip the carcass of a horse in half an hour. After such a meal they can fly only a few yards. They stand with puffed-out bodies, drooping wings, and blood-shot eyes, uttering hideous cries.

BLOW WAS FAIR SAYS REFEREE

Dempsey and Kearns Debate Whether or Not to Arrange Match With Carpenter Following Flasco With Lewis.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, May 12.—Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, and his manager Jack Kearns, conferred at length today over the advisability of making a match for Dempsey to meet Georges Carpenter in the prize ring in Europe some time next autumn. Both Dempsey and Kearns say that Carpenter looked better when he knocked out Ted ("Kid") Lewis last night than he did when defeated by Dempsey in Jersey City last year.

There is much disappointment here over the Carpenter-Lewis contest. What was expected to be a gruelling battle with flashes of skillful boxing, proved a flasco and more of a wrestling match than anything else.

In view of the ugly attitude of the crowd, London papers today printed long expert opinions to prove that Carpenter won fairly and that Lewis had not succumbed to a foul blow.

"The final right hand punch of Carpenter's was perfectly fair," said Joe Palmer, the referee.

"The men were in a clinch, but had broken away. It was Lewis's business to protect himself. He knew that under the rules, Carpenter was allowed to hit."

Dempsey has drawn the color line. Kearns reiterated that the champion would not meet Harry Willis.

STATE FACTORY WORK SHOWS LITTLE CHANGE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, May 12.—The number of workers employed in New York state factories in April was approximately 7 per cent less than in March, chiefly because of the usual seasonal slackening of production in a number of industries. According to the statement issued today by the Industrial Commissioner, Henry D. Sayer, of the State Department of Labor, signs of improvement continue to appear in the reports from several branches of manufacturing, however. Increased employment due to seasonal activity was also reported in some industries.

Fast Sailing Ships.

The fastest day's record of any sailing ship on any sea was made by the Sovereign of the Seas on a passage from San Francisco to New York, when it covered 487 miles in 24 hours. The quickest passage of a clipper ship across the Atlantic was that of the Dreadnought, from New York, to Cape Clear, Ireland, in 12 days, in 1859.

SWEDEN DOES ONE-THIRD WORK BY ELECTRICITY

Power Installation Still Increasing With Rapid Strides in Scandinavia.

Electricity has conquered one-third of the entire cultivated area of Sweden, according to the latest official reports.

If Sweden continues electrifying at the present rate, it will only be a few years till almost the whole country will be run by electricity.

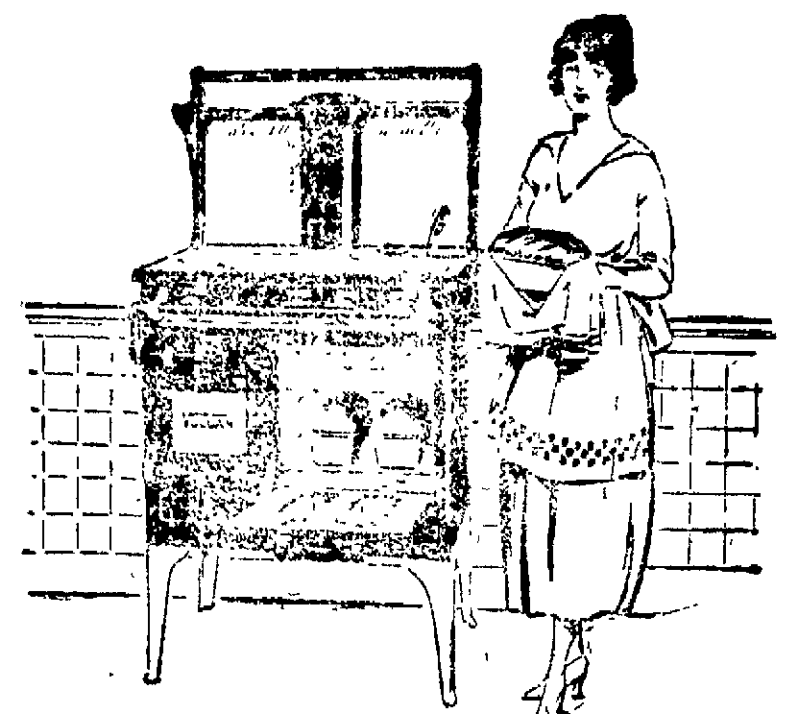

Most of the farms within the electrified area are now tapping the new source of energy, and nearly all the power used in the daily labor on these farms is derived from the high-power lines which span whole sections of the country.

Large power stations deliver most of the electric energy used in the rural communities; but in many places the farmers themselves have installed turbines and built private power stations, harnessing for this purpose swift streams and small waterfalls on their own properties. These enterprises, however, are generally co-operative.

A great deal of the most arduous farm labor is performed by electrically driven machinery at a cost far below the cost of machines propelled by steam or horsepower, or of hand labor. Water is pumped for cattle by electricity, threshing machines are driven by electric current, timber is saved by motor power, and farm hands are no longer ordered to cut firewood by hand because it is cheaper to have even that labor done by electricity. Candles have almost disappeared.

In many cases grain is dried and cleaned by being passed through electrically driven hot-air fanning machines. It is not uncommon to find on the larger estates electric elevators which lift entire wagon loads of hay or grain and dump them where desired in the barns.

One Swedish estate owner has installed an electrically operated irrigation system whereby a large field can be watered in times of drought. It is now only a matter of a short time till plows and harrows will be propelled by electric power.

AX FOR FOREST GIANTS

Three Huge Oak Trees Had to Give Way to Business Rush.
Three oak trees, estimated to be more than 200 years old, have been cut down in the business district of Valparaiso, Ind., to make way for a new business building.

The three trees are fully 75 feet tall and three feet through at the base. It is estimated the trees contain 18 cords of wood and fence posts.

Many years ago hundreds of these giants of the forest stood on the present site of the city, but they have given way to the progress of civilization. At the Court House square, in the center of the business district, four of the trees remain.

Put it in Writing.
Agreements made by word of mouth are like leaves of the forest. They fade out, drop off and blow away. Make a couple of copies of any contract you enter into. Keep one yourself and give the party of the second part another and lay the third away in your safe, with your most valuable papers.—Cleveland News-Lender.

Worth Knowing.
The Angelus bell, always rung thrice a day, takes its name from the first words of the prayer. The De Profundis bell sounds one hour after the Ave. It was only a comparatively recent date that bells were used for calling people to church. For ages they were designed solely for keeping evil spirits at a safe distance.

REVIVES WAR ON GUILLOTINE

Landru Execution Causes of Renewed Agitation in France.

HAS OPERATED 130 YEARS

Abolition of Capital Punishment of That Guillotining-Take Place in Private, Is Being Demanded—Man Whose Name It Bears Had Nothing to Do With the Construction of the Sinister Machine—Claimed Many Victims During the Revolution.

Through the publicity given to the Landru execution, notice has again been attracted to the guillotine, and the Socialist papers, of which there are a number in Paris, are demanding abolition of capital punishment or that guillotining take place in the privacy of prison.

In fact the public is not admitted to executions, except when there is laxity on the part of the local officials, the publicity being due to the presence of reporters. It is urged that reporters should not be required to attend such functions, as the public would accept as accurate any prison governor's announcement that a man had been guillotined without assurance by newspaper men.

Operates 130 Years.

In a few weeks the guillotine will have operated for 130 years in France. Before the Revolution, condemned persons were put to death in various ways. In some cases bones were broken by blows from an iron bar. Others were made to die in agony on the wheel. Many nobles were decapitated with the sword. The majority, however, were hanged. In 1790, a humanitarian, Doctor Guillotin, procured the issuance of a decree that a criminal should be decapitated by a simple machine with a knife, "which should fall like the thunder." Actually, Guillotin, who was a professor of anatomy in the Paris School of Medicine, had nothing to do with the construction of the sinister machine, and he died of chagrin because his name was given to it.

A German harpsichord maker named Schmidt built the first guillotine under the direction of Doctor Louis, secretary of the Academy of Surgery. Louis XVI, who prided himself on his skill as a locksmith and his knowledge of mechanics, is said to have advised the adoption of the triangular form of knife instead of the scythe-shape of the original design. This story of the king, who was subsequently to lose his head on the guillotine, is discredited in many quarters, although it appears in the "Memoirs" of Samson, one of the great hangmen.

Crowds in First.
To the first guillotining, which took place in 1792 on the Place de Greve, the people of Paris thronged in crowds. At the swift end of Nicholas Pelletier, a footpad who had robbed and stabbed to death a traveler, they clapped their hands with satisfaction. After that the guillotine was kept busy. From August, 1792, to July, 1794, 2,632 persons were beheaded, including 334 women.

In recent years the amount of guillotining has largely depended on the personal views of the President of the moment. Thirty years ago President Carnot executed everybody who had been sentenced to death. Then President Fallieres went to the other extreme, being opposed to guillotining anybody. This led to an outcry, in consequence of which criminals guilty of particularly brutal murders escaped the penalty. From 1912 the death machine has worked with regularity.

But there has always been a latent hostility and the Landru case has brought it to the surface. In addition to the cry for abolition of capital punishment there is a demand for certitude that a man is guilty before being beheaded, and in Landru's case certitude was not established.

WELL-TRAINED DOG

Would Not Give Up Postal Missive on Which 10 Cents Was Due.

A story offered by Charles W. Jefferson, postmaster of Federalburg, Va., is vouched for by Sewell Noble and concerns the sagacity of the former's pet terrier Rex.

Jefferson has trained the animal so that if some one across the street from the postoffice calls for his mail he places it in the dog's mouth, points to the recipient and the dog trots over to deliver it.

Not long ago Noble availed himself of the "free" delivery being across the street, and Rex ambled over with one letter in his teeth, but instead of giving it to the owner as usual he backed off and growled when Noble tried to take the missive.

Puzzled, the postmaster went across to the recalcitrant dog, only to find that, without noticing it, he had given the terrier a special delivery letter on which was due 10 cents. On Noble's throwing a dime on the sidewalk, Rex promptly yielded the letter as his master retrieved the fee.

MILTON RESIDENT SEeks MARRIAGE ANNULLMENT

Wheeler Married, But Never Lived With Wife.

Walter J. Wheeler of 392 Clinton avenue, Brooklyn, started suit before Justice Faber in Supreme Court in Brooklyn Tuesday for the annulment of his marriage to Mrs. Mary Smith Wheeler twenty-six years ago. He said he was forced into the marriage, testifying:

"After the ceremony I went right home and I have never lived with the woman."

"Why did you wait twenty-six years before bringing this suit?" asked Justice Faber.

"Being a Catholic, I was reluctant to ask an annulment. But now I desire to marry again and establish a home for myself."

A week before the ceremony, said Wheeler, relatives of the defendant demanded that he marry her. Subsequently the girl's father was said to have locked him in a room with the remark:

"He won't leave this house until he marries the girl."

A priest interceded, however, and got Wheeler out. His family sent him to Milton, N. Y. Every day while he was there, he added, one of the girl's four brothers stood guard in front of his home. Finally, said Wheeler, his mother wrote him saying that a threat had been made that vitriol would be thrown in his sister's face if he didn't return and be married. When during the ceremony he found he had no ring, he said, the bride's sister produced one.

Deceit was evident. The defendant lives at 1929 Cortelvon road, Flatbush.—New York Herald.

50,000 EX-SERVICE MEN
STILL AWAIT EMPLOYMENT

Major William F. Deegan, New York State Commander of the American Legion, announces a "spring drive" on the part of the legion in cooperation with the City Employment Bureau at 129 Worth street, to get jobs for unemployed veterans of the World War. Latest estimates show that there are still over 50,000 unemployed veterans in New York city and vicinity, says Major Deegan.

Many of these men, registered at the New York City Free Employment Bureau, are qualified to fill positions in the country—as gardeners, farm-hands, chauffeurs and housemen. A selected number are endorsed by the legion and the bureau as special guards for estates and institutions. Major Deegan especially urges upon country golf and tennis clubs, in need of help, to give ex-servicemen the benefit of these opportunities. The Employment Bureau maintains a classified list of hotel workers, caddies, porters, groundkeepers, stewards, housemen and waiters.

Orders should be sent to Patrick Jones, in charge of ex-service men, City Employment Bureau, 129 Worth street, New York city. Telephone, Franklin 1510.

Finch a Musician.

The purple Finch, a bird of glistening, deep carmine plumage, is an excellent musician, singing a rich, rolling, well-sustained song, says the American Forestry Magazine. This species has a decided fondness for buds of various kinds, and may often be seen eating the catkins of the poplars.

Cherries Lead Bacteria Test.

A scientist has succeeded in calculating the number of bacteria in certain fruits. He found a million in half a pound of gooseberries, eight millions in half a pound of grapes, and twelve millions in half a pound of cherries.

Head-Hunting Cannibals.

A race of almost 40,000 head-hunting cannibals, said to be the smallest human beings now in existence as a race, was recently discovered by an explorer in New Hebrides.

There isn't a living, breathing soul, who will not thrill to the pranks, the disappointments and the joys of Wesley Barry, in his latest screen play, Gus Edwards's "School Days."

In fact, every man and woman who remembers the kid days of yesteryear will float over the inimitable characterization of the freckle-faced screen star. Never has he been seen in a photoplay that gives him the widest scope to display his ability as a luminary.

The story deals with a small town boy who, through the good graces of a wealthy uncle, is sent to a private school in the east. The pranks that he performs among his small rural friends, he also performs among his wealthy circle. But to tell you the story in full would be spoiling your entertainment. The cast is excellent, and the picture is a screen classic. Don't fail to see this wonderful comedy!

LAKE OF PETROLEUM

Indiana Use the Oil and Local Producers Would Like to Find It.

Somewhere in the western part of the Olympic mountains in Washington there is a lake of pure petroleum. At several Indian camps near here the aborigines are using for fuel and light cedar sticks which have been soaked in oil.

That there is crude oil in the Northwest mountains has been long suspected, for two generations ago places were found where oil bubbled up through rock and shale formations.

An attempt is being made by local prospectors to discover the pool where the Indians make their "fire sticks" that burn a long time.

The oil showing is in a region easy of access and successful exploitation would yield millions.

ANGLERS' OUTING AT PHOENICIA

Anglers Club of New York Conducts Tournament For Trout Fishermen

The following report on the outing of the Anglers' Club of New York, and trout fishing championship at Phenicia, on Saturday and Sunday, May 6 and 7, has been received from Arthur Ritter of New York, by Carlton S. Preston, secretary of the Ulster County Fish and Game Association:

Am pleased to give you a brief report of the club outing held at Phenicia on May 6 and 7th.

Over twenty members entered the trout fishing contest on Saturday the sixth and I attach a list of the winners together with the names of merchants in Phenicia who donated prizes.

A dinner and smoker was held at the Phenicia Hotel, the club headquarters, at 8:30 on Saturday evening at which time the prizes were awarded. Souvenir pipes and tins of tobacco were provided for all. An address was made by Carlton S. Preston, the active secretary and treasurer of the Ulster County Fish and Game Association. Mr. Preston gave details of stocking the Catskill mountain streams with trout and putting-out of wild game.

A vote of thanks was extended to J. P. Edmundson, our host and proprietor of the Phenicia Hotel, for his generous cooperation in making the outing a success. The secretary, Mr. Stubbs, was also requested to send a letter of thanks to each of the merchants who donated prizes. It was the unanimous opinion of the members present that the next outing should be held at Phenicia to make it a success.

The following are the winners and their prizes:

- 1.—A. P. Nagle, 95½ points, $19 prize certificate (merchandise) by Anglers' Club of New York.
- 2.—William W. Swan, 89 points, English leader box, donated by E. and W. G. Brethaupt Company.
- 3.—James S. Pettit, 82½ points, box of cigars, donated by Phenicia Hotel.
- 4.—T. W. Thompson, 78½ points, rainbow reel, donated by Harper and Koen.
- 5.—S. J. Lane, 53½ points, tapered fishing line, donated by Simpson Brothers.
- 6.—N. R. Heater, 56 points, English razor, donated by William G. Meister.
- 7.—W. Manning Barr, 41 points, fishing reel, donated by J. L. McGrath, estate.
- 8.—Dr. F. C. Raynor, 36 points, fishing hat, donated by F. Gordon.

THRIFTY FARM BOY

Pete He Keeps Earn Money for Him In Various Ways

With prize money earned at calf and chicken exhibits and on the sale of cockerels, Bernard Allen of Tomahawk, Wis., member of poultry and calf clubs, paid for oats and hay for his purebred Holstein calf throughout last winter and until pasturing time, May 1, and with money since earned he is going to try to pay part of his calf note, as well as feed for his poultry.

The boy is attached to his Barred Rock birds.

"They make good sitting hens and good mothers which helps a lot in the busy summer months when you can put five or six chicks and chicks together," he said. "Best of all, they are good winter layers when eggs are high-priced. My hens haven't stopped laying even in moult time. They always lay enough to pay for their feed and leave a good margin."

Breaks Her Rib Laughing.
Mrs. John Miner of Fosterla, O., laughed for two minutes at a funny story. While doing so she felt a peculiar pain in her right side. The pain increased and a doctor was called, who found that she had broken a rib from the exertion of laughing.
